QUIP AND JEST ARE TEMPERED WITH SYMPATHY

What was at first supposed to be "the dawn of day," turned out to be Colonel Jem Ham Lewis, and an "engine of war," to Saul's ancient eye was only Governor Hiram Johnson. Even his old friend, "Joan of Arc" was really Albert J. Beveridge, disguised as "Mary of the Vine-clad Cottage."

The action progressed until the bull moose and its followers were feeling and the man with the golf stick was preparing to leave the green. The post-haste for Washington to seek a job, declaring that he had been a "lifelong Democrat since the battle ended."

One of the striking features of the evening's entertainment was a rendition of a complete act of the tuncful opera of "Carmen" by the vocalists if the club in full costume. This was the famous act of the bull fight, only it was rendered with stranger characters than Bizet ever dreamed of, and even the bull was replaced by a full-grown bull moose. Entered Don Jorge Perkinsario, champion bull moose trainer of the world, who announced that the Mexicans, tired of bull fighting, wanted a sport that had some real hot tamales and chile con carne in it, which meant a bull moose fight. President Garfield, after a whispered conversation with President Taft, announced that the President of the United States "assures me that you can have him (the bull moose) and welcome."

Carmen appears, "history's gay co-quette," as "Popular Applause," and sings: "To win my smile the greatest statement pause, but when my glances seem most fair, then have a care, beware, beware."

Enter the Bull Moose. The bull moose, pawing and snorting, enters, and then in order the tondors are introduced and invited to explain their methods of attack. Don Roberto La Follette replies: "If I had got a chance to catch my breath, I'm sure I could have caught the brute to death," but he has retired into the group as the bull moose makes a demonstration. Tondor Don Champ Clark sings:

"I know the way to get that moose so grim.
Why don't they turn Bill Bryan loose on him?
If they did that I'd have a good excuse
For saying: 'Go it, Bill! Go it, bull moose!'"

Then they sang "Carmen." Carmen: "But where's Don Taft? That's the man I'd call by far the worthiest matador of all."
Don Jorge: "Don Taft's a good fighter, people say."
Carmen:

"Too good for any rough and tumble fray.
Frank and forbearing, inclined to show
A liberal mind to an ungenerous foe,
This little message he has paused to write:

"I'm busy now, let Hillis run the fight; Yet he's the kind of man I hate to see Fonder of duty than he is of me."

Then the climax. Don Woodrow, singing and waving his blade, asserts: "I'll bowl him over with classic lore. Lines of Euripides, phrases of Sophocles,
Plato and Plutarch at him I'll bellow and roar.
Oratory in all its glory I'll hurl at him with might and main;
He'll get no chance to tell the story. I'll never let him explain."

Whereupon he turns upon the bull moose, who falls and is dragged off by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, while Don Woodrow turns to Miss Popular Applause, who greets him: "Woodrow, I'm yours for four long years, per-haps."

Touching Farewell to Taft. The farewell to President Taft was touchingly conveyed in the verses entitled, "On the Ohio," set to the music of "Moonlight Bay," as follows:

Nestling down,
By the old Ohio shore;
There's a town,
Famous since the days of yore,
Cincinnati—good old station—
For the leader of our nation,
Waits with welcoming ovation,
On the Ohio.

CHORUS:
When the moon beams shine,
On the Ohio,
And electric lights on Vine Street
Are all aglow,
Or if on the Rhine
You should chance to be,
Won't you think of us in Washington,
D. C.

We have met
Where the broad Potomac flows,
With regret
We will lose the friend that goes.
When the Fountain Square you wander
Won't you sometimes pause and ponder
On the friends so distant yonder
From the Ohio.

Blighted in manhood's bloom;
Gone from the heart that loved him
To sleep in the silent tomb.

How it fills our hearts with pain;
